PRACTICE SUMMARY

Doug Panzer is an intellectual property litigator who brings his years of experience in the computer and software industries to bear on every matter he handles. His clients include e-commerce companies, web designers and software developers.

Prior to practicing law, Doug had an extensive career developing and managing web and enterprise technologies for a variety of companies, including BroadVision, Inc., The National Institutes of Health, and Children's Hospital of Philadelphia. He was directly involved in the development of such websites as CHOP.edu, CIBC.com, Fleet.com, GESupply.com, Maidenform.com, Polo.com, ReOrbital.com and Timberland.com.

Doug's formal education and hands-on experience include programming in C/C++, Java, ASP and PHP, as well as database experience with Oracle, MS SQL Server, MySQL and PostgreSQL. Doug is the founder of ReOrbital, LLC, a web development and design consulting firm and until recently served as its Director of Technology. A graduate of American University – Washington College of Law (J.D. 2006), Doug received undergraduate degrees from Washington & Lee University (B.A. Economics, 1998; B.S. Computer Science 1999).
